TOM MEADOWCROFT

In 1979 when he was 19 years old, Tom traveled to Bordeaux, France, for three months to learn how to make wine. Tom went from château to château looking for work until he was hired at Château Bergeron in Sauternes. Tom returned to the U.S, earned his political science degree at the University of Washington, and worked in home building to make a living while he continued to learn and dream about winemaking.

In 1995, Tom began making wine on Vashon Island in Washington with Chris Camarda, but a winter freeze destroyed the crop. A few months later, Tom landed a fortuitous role making wine with California wine-growing legend, Ric Forman, and completed his Viticulture and Winery Technology degree at Napa Valley College. In 1997, Tom became a vineyard manager and worked with some of Napa Valley and Sonoma's premier wineries. The passion and expertise of his peers at these esteemed wine estates inspired Tom to establish his own winery.

In 1999, Tom purchased a vineyard on Mt. Veeder in Napa Valley, replanted the vineyard, and four years later, in 2003, he launched Meadowcroft Wines. Tom's first wine releases from the Mt. Veeder Vineyard were the critically acclaimed 2004 and 2005 Meadowcroft Mt. Veeder Estate Cabernet Sauvignon, the flagship wine of his portfolio.
